Academic Integrity

Academic integrity is vital to our university community for many reasons. Anyone who submits work that is not his or her own, or who cheats on a test, or plagiarizes a paper, is not learning, is receiving credit dishonestly and is, in effect, stealing from other students. As a consequence, it is crucial that students do their own work. Students who use someone else's work or ideas without saying so, or who otherwise perform dishonestly in a course, are cheating. In effect, they are lying. Such dishonesty, moreover, threatens the integrity not only of the individual student, but also of the university community as a whole.

The full Academic Integrity Policy is available under the Academic Policies section of the Undergraduate Catalog.
